U. S. NAVY REGULATIONS.

Order No. 120, issued June 30, 1905.

"No salute shall be fired in honor of any nation or of any official of any nation not formally recognized by the Government of the United States."

Rear-Admiral Charles J. Badger (in uniform), commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet on the way to Tampico, Mexico; and Rear-Admiral Bradley Allen Fiske, aide for operations.

DEMAND NAMES OF GRAFTERS

Mayor Curley's charge that since he became Mayor attempts have been made to "graft" by promising protection or favor for money payments, has whirled up a storm of questions.

Mayor Curley says he suspects two former aldermen and an architect.

But he refuses to name them. And the question was in the air at City Hall today. "Who are they?"

The Mayor says he told Police Commissioner O'Meara, and that Detective Sergeant Michael Burke has been investigating. Neither the Mayor nor the others will name the "grafters." The whole thing is a profound mystery.

Mayor Curley's statement is that a lumber dealer came to the Mayor's office and asked for preference on a certain contract on the ground that the company had paid $200 to a man representing himself as coming from the Mayor. The man to whom this $200 was said to be paid also went to another lumber firm, the Tidd Company, but they would have nothing to do with his proposals.

It is alleged that graft attempts by trading upon the Mayor's name began even prior to the latter's election. This is vouched for by Frank P. Huckins of the L. Robert Tidd Company, a lumber firm, who declared that an offer was made to put him "in right" with the Curley administration when it came into power for $500. This offer Mr. Huckins said was made just before the Mayor's election.

One of the ex-aldermen is said to have secured $2,000 from a contractor by promising to use his influence with Curley.

At 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon a graft hearing, at which startling exposures are expected, will be held at City Hall.

Announcement of the hearing followed the charge of Marks Harris of No. 72 Lawrence avenue, Roxbury, who is an applicant for a license for a moving picture house at the corner

11 DEAD IN TENEMENT HOUSE FIRE

NEW YORK, April 17.—Eleven persons were killed and five others were so badly burned they will probably die in a fire which swept through a furnished room house at No. 141 Eighth avenue early today. A number of the victims, two of them women, were so badly burned that their features were unrecognizable and they have not been identified.

The most pathetic feature of the tragedy was the burning of Muriel Davis, four years old. She had evidently fled from her parents' room on one of the upper floors for the little body, clad only in a night gown, was found on the stairs leading from the fourth floor. The little one clasped a doll tightly in her arms and when the hardened fire fighters lifted the blackened, charred body they did so tenderly and saw to it that the doll was not disturbed.

The fire started among some excelsior in the basement of a five and ten-cent store which occupied the first floor of the building. Before those on the upper floors were aroused their exit had been cut off.

The only victims that have been identified are Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wallace, Mrs. Anna Spencer, James Nesara, Muriel Davis and her mother, Mrs. George C. Davis.

Martin Welsh, Charles Burke, an unidentified woman and two unidentified men were taken to the hospital in a critical condition.

Fire Chief Kenlon, who led the fire fighters in person, declared that the fire was the result of criminal negligence. As a result of this charge, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Enkes, who conducted a rooming house on the four upper floors, were taken to the West Forty-seventh street police station and detained as witnesses for the inquest before Coroner Healy.

ASSASSIN SHOOTS AT MITCHEL

NEW YORK, April 17.—An attempt was made this afternoon to assassinate Mayor John Purroy Mitchel as he was entering an automobile in front of City Hall.

One shot was fired at the Mayor by a man who had apparently been waiting upon the sidewalk.

The bullet missed the city executive and struck Corporation Counsel Lyon Polk in the jaw, inflicting a bad wound.

The assailant was at once arrested.

Accompanied by Mr. Polk and Arthur H. Woods, the newly appointed police commissioner, Mr. Mitchel was just entering the automobile to go to luncheon when the shot was fired.

Mr. Polk was carried to the traffic police station in the basement of City Hall and a doctor summoned.

Mayor Mitchel and Police Commissioner Woods helped carry Mr. Polk into the basement, wher he was made as comfortable as possible. The bullet struck the jaw bone and was deflected upward.

The shooting caused tremedous excitement, as Park row, Broadway and City Hall park are always thronged with persons going to or from lunch at the hour of the shooting.

So enormous was the crowd that gathered in a few minutes that police reserves had to be called out.

"I am not certain whether or not the man shot at me," said Mayor Mitchel immediately after the shooting. At that time the assassin had not been identified.

Wilson-McAdoo Wedding in White House on May 7

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The President and Mrs. Wilson today announced that the wedding of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson and Secretary of the Treasury, William G. McAdoo, will take place on Thursday, May 7.

"In accordance with the wishes of Miss Wilson and Mr. McAdoo, the wedding will be very small, only the Vice-President and Mrs. Marshall, the Cabinet and the immediate members of the two families are to be present," the official announcement stated.

Beyond the announcement of the date of the wedding, and the fact that it will be private, no news of the ceremony was available at the White House. Even the hour of the wedding is being kept secret.

It is considered likely, however, that the ceremony will take place in the afternoon as did the Wilson-Sayre wedding, and that it will be in the East Room of the White House.

Margaret Deland, Novelist, Rallies After Operation

Margaret Deland, the famous novelist, was operated on two weeks ago for appendicitis it became known today. The operation was performed at the Corey Hill Hospital. She rallied well after the shock of the operation and has recovered steadily. At her home today it was said she would be able to leave the hospital in a week.

Mrs. Deland is the wife of Lorin F. Deland. It is at this season that she holds each year a "Jonquil Sale" for charity. There is some question whether it will be possible for her to arrange the sale this year on account of her illness, but it is expected that it will be carried through by her friends if not by her personally.

Mrs. Deland lives at No. 35 Newbury street. Perhaps her most famous character is "Dr. Lavendar" who appears in several of her books.

Brockton Barber Wields Razor on Foe with Stiletto

BROCKTON, April 17.—A terrific fight took place today in Salvatore Cadarotta's barber shop at No. 69 North Main street between Cararotta, armed with a razor, with which he had just been shaving a customer, and Frank Borelli of No. 65 Prospect street, who, according to Cadarotta, rushed in and attacked the barber with a stiletto.

Three stabs were inflicted on Cadarotta's face and head. His hands were cut when he tried to grasp the stiletto.

Borelli was cut on the face, arms and head. The police say that the razor seemed just as effective as the stiletto, when wielded with barber's practiced hands.

Borelli was arrested for assault with a dangerous weapon.

'My Country' Sung by Deaf Mutes

HOLYOKE, April 17.—Mute girls "sang" "My Country 'Tis of Thee," comedians "cracked" jokes and a two act play entitled "New York Life" was presented by young men and women who can neither speak nor hear, at the annual convention of National Society of Deaf Mutes, in this city today. The national anthem was sung by Misses Viola Young and Arna Klopfer, by the use of their hands. Dancing followed the entertainment.

DICTATOR HEDGES ON FLAG SALUTE; FLEET SPEEDS ON

MEXICO CITY, April 17.—Mexico will insist that the United States salute the Mexican flag simultaneously with the firing of a salute by the fort at Tampico, in honor of the American flag.

This is authoritatively reported to be the import of a dispatch sent by Charge O'Shaughnessy to the State Department of Washington, after an extended conference with Provisional President Huerta today.

WASHINGTON, April 17. The Tampico incident, which last night appeared to be entirely closed by the agreement of President Huerta to salute the American flag, today proved to be far from completed.

Charge O'Shaughnessy today wired the State Department a lengthy message to the effect that President Huerta demands "certain additional details" in connection with the salute.

The American Charge inquired if the President was willing to conform with the demands of the Mexican dictator.

Secretary Bryan immediately carried this dispatch to the White House, where he conferred with President Wilson and Senator Shively, acting chairman of the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations. The latter left the White House within a few moments, refusing to comment on the situation. Secretary to the President Tumulty admitted that the situation "looked promising, but not fixed."

This also was Secretary Bryan's comment. Secretary Tumulty elaborated his remarks by stating that "There are certain additional details which do not affect the main issue of the salute which have just come up and which will have to be considered."

WARRANT IN BRIDE SLAYING

NORWAY, Me., April 17.—The arrest of a man—a relative of the girl—on a charge of murder is expected today after the burial of Mrs. Ethel M. Cummings, the seventeen-year-old bride, who was shot and killed in the home of her parents at Albany, a few miles from here.

The funeral services take place in the Town Hall at noon. A warrant issued by Judge W. S. Jones of Norway is in the hands of Deputy Sheriff W. H. Kilgore of Albany, and every precaution has been taken to prevent the escape of the suspect. The arrest is expected to cause a sensation.

The warrant was issued after a coroner's jury found Mrs. Cummings had been slain instead of committing suicide, as had been stated. She was killed with a shotgun that had been in the home of her parents for years. The autopsy showed that the shot which caused her death was fired downward into the mouth, that her arms were too short for the length of the gun barrel, and that she could not have pulled the trigger as was first reported.

Coroner A. P. Bassett took an impression of Mrs. Cummings' hands, and they were compared with the finger prints found on the barrel of the gun today. The marks on the gun barrel are expected to have an important bearing on the solution of the mystery.

William Adams, the girl's father, is said to have been the only person in the house when the shot was fired. He had been in the yard with his wife and youngest daughter, Irene, and entered the house with an armful of wood. A short time later Mrs. Adams and Irene heard what they thought was the bursting of a jar, but paid little attention to it. Mrs. Cummings was supposed to have been in her room packing her trunk in preparation for her trip to Bethel, Me., to join her husband.

According to the story Mrs. Adams told Coroner Bassett, she and Irene remained in the yard for several minutes after her husband had entered the house and that each of them also collected an armful of wood before they went in. Shortly after they had entered the kitchen Irene asked her mother:

"What was that noise?"

"I don't know," replied Mrs. Adams. "But I'll go and see."

The woman started for the front room, passing through the bedroom which adjoins the kitchen, and from there to the front room. There, stretched upon the floor, the victim by her side, lay her eldest daughter—dead. The room was filled with smoke, the girl's clothing and hair were on fire, and blood was running over the floor.

Mrs. Adams screamed and her husband and Irene rushed into the room. Mr. Adams attempted to extinguish the flames with his hands, and finally succeeded with a basin of water.

The authorities were notified and the investigation of Coroner Bassett resulted. The girl's family persists in the statement that she suffered from hysteria, and declare that she was in poor health, having undergone an operation for appendicitis a short time ago. They asserted that the death of a neighbor by suicide had preyed upon her mind, making her despondent, and she took this method of ending her troubles.

Mrs. Cummings was the wife of Sherman Cummings of Groveton, Vt. They were married fifteen months ago against the wishes of the girl's father. Adams' objections to his son-in-law are said to have increased after the wedding. Cummings is said to have evidenced but little interest in his wife's welfare.

The young woman is said to have spent the most of her time since the wedding at her parents' home, and it is stated that Cummings visited her but once, when he arrived at 10 o'clock in the morning, and left at 2 in the afternoon. However, at the time of the shooting Mrs. Cummings was preparing to meet her husband at Bethel.

It is impossible to learn at what hour tragedy occurred, but it is estimated at between 3 and 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The gun found near the girl's body was one belonging to her father. It was usually kept in the kitchen and, according to her father's story, she had never touched the gun in her life.

The gun has a barrel 27½ inches long. The girl's arm was but 25 inches long from her shoulder to the tip of her fingers, and because of this it is not believed she could have fired the shot that ended her life.

The girl's family consists of her father, William Adams, a middle-aged man; her mother, and Irene, her fourteen-year-old sister.

Adams has lived in Albany on his farm for eighteen years, coming there from Stoneham, Mass.

$4,000 Freight House Fire in Framingham

FRAMINGHAM, April 17.—Fire did $4,000 damage to the New Haven Railroad's freight house on Pearl street early today and alarmed occupants of a large tenement house less than 100 feet away. The fire was caused by an overheated stove in the employes' dressing room. Freight records for ten years back were destroyed. There was a moderate quantity of freight on the floor, which was damaged more by water than fire.

GIRL TELLS OF LOVE IN SUIT FOR $25,000

Miss Victoria Malewski, the pretty twenty-year-old Dorchester phone operator, declared again today on the witness stand that she loved Richard Dembouski, the Chelsea man she is suing for $25,000 heart balm.

"What were your feeling when your engagement to him was broken off?" she was asked.

"I dearly loved him. I feared what people would say and the first thing that entered my mind was what people would think about me. I had almost invited them to my wedding and had told them that I was going to be married. For many nights I was unable to sleep.

"I spent $50 of my personal savings out of my $9 a week salary to buy some of my clothes as I was expecting to be married."

Attorney John P. Feeney for the defendant asked her if it wasn't true that she went to many dances, parties and picnics after they had separated. She answered that she had gone to some parties, one picnic, but to no theatres.

Following a ten-minute recess the trial was put over until next Tuesday morning.

The first witness of the day was Mrs. Mary Malkewski, the mother of the girl who brings the suit. She testified that no other men called on her daughter. She admitted that her daughter had gone to dances, but had not attended theatres or moving picture plays.

Under cross-examination she admitted that the first she heard about the money mentioned was when her daughter spoke of it after a return from a visit to Chelsea.

Attorney Feeney in making his opening to the jury, said that nothing final was ever said or and date fixed about marriage. On the other hand in one instance, when the girl was in a fury because he hadn't come to her, she took the ring that he had given her for a Christmas present, off her finger and threw it on the floor. At another time, she said she didn't love him.

"There isn't any Worchester girl in this case, and there never was. There was no offer of $4,000 dowery to Dembouski."

RALLY TO HELP MRS. WAKEFIELD AT NEW TRIAL

HARTFORD, Ct., April 17.—Following the ruling of the Supreme Court that Mrs. Bessie J. Wakefield, convicted of killing her husband and sentenced to hang, be given a new trial, her friends are planning a desperate fight in her behalf.

Predictions were freely made today that she will never again be convicted.

Mrs. Wakefield's case has attracted such nation-wide attention and had resulted in such a flood of appeals for executive clemency during the uncommon interest attaches to the latest court news in her behalf.

The Supreme Court ruled that part of the evidence given by Coroner Mix in her last trial should have been excluded.

A new trial was then ordered.

Mrs. Wakefield was awakened from a sound sleep and informed by the prison matron that she had been granted a new trial.

"Is it really true?" she asked. Being reassured, she cried, "Thank the Lord," and then broke down, sobbing hysterically.

The woman was found guilty of murder October 31, 1913. Her alleged accomplice, James Plew, had already been convicted.

He was executed for the crime at the State prison in Weathersfield on March 4.

The two were charged with killing Mrs. Wakefield's husband last June. They were then living in Bristol. Plew worked on a farm near Waterbury and was a frequent caller at the Wakefield home. The evidence indicated that on a Sunday afternoon when Plew called he started a dispute with Wakefield, according to a plan that had been arranged by himself and the wife before hand.

The woman and her accomplice then, the evidence showed, chloroformed Wakefield, and Plew dragged him from the house and for several miles into the woods north of Cheshire, and killed him.

Women's organizations have made a strong fight to save Mrs. Wakefield from the gallows, on which she was sentenced to die March 4. Her appeal acted as a stay of execution. Thousands of protests against her execution have been received by Governor Simeon E. Baldwin from all parts of the country.

No woman has died on the gallows in Connecticut for more than twelve years.

The Supreme Court found no error in the appeal of Joseph Buonomo of Bridgeport for a new trial. He was twice convicted of murdering Jennie Cavaglieri, a Chicago underworld character, in Stamford, October 22, 1912.

Claims Most Ottawa Society Girls Smoke

OTTAWA, April 17.—"Perhaps the majority of young society girls of the best class in Ottawa now smoke cigarettes," said W. L. Scott of Ottawa, president of the Ontario Union of Children's Aid Societies, before the anti-cigarette committee of the Commons Women of the middle and lower classes, he said, did not smoke.

ROXBURY GIRL DENIED $7,212 SUICIDE MAILED

Miss Agnes Foster of No. 41 Winthrop street, Roxbury, daughter of Albert J. Foster, president of the People's National Bank, cannot collect the money on a check for $7,212, mailed to her by Leon Gulpon, a magazine artist and pupil of Wilson M. Chase, who committed suicide because of ill-health on June 14, 1910.

The check represented Gulpon's entire estate and after three years of legal wrangling the Appellate division of the Supreme Court in Brooklyn has decided that because Gulpon was not familiar with the general law regarding checks he failed to make a valid gift to Miss Foster, and that she can have nothing from the estate, while the proceeds of the $7,212 must go to second cousins of Gulpon in France, of whom he never heard.

DANIELS TELLS WHY HE BARRED WINE IN NAVY

NEW YORK, April 17.—Officers and men in the navy think a little better of Secretary Daniels today as a result of his explanation of his recent order abolishing the wine mess. At the annual banquet of the Navy League, Secretary Daniels said:

"With singular lack of logic, critics who see fit to represent me as a foe to discipline on the one hand, twist this into a case of discipline on mad on the other. Far greater questions than that of discipline lie back of this."

He said there was no body of more temperate, clear-headed men in the world than American naval officers. He asked his hearers whether they could not demand the abolishing of a one mess in railroad engineering houses if the railroads should permit such a thing.

"The wreck of a great battleship," said the secretary, "the loss of a critical battle and the honor of the country may easily hinge upon one of any men in the varied and complex duties which these great masses of delicate machinery called battleships, have created."

Brockton School Dentist.

BROCKTON, April 17.—The school board has elected Dr. Fred B. Gammon municipal dentist to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation two weeks ago of Dr. Maurice Locke.

Why Shaw Uses "Forbidden Word"

LONDON, April 17.—George Bernard Shaw, defending the use of the forbidden adjective "bloody" in his new play, "Pygmalion," writes: "I was not the first to use it on the stage, but was the first to see that Mrs. Patrick Campbell could bring down the house with it, quite inoffensively, by very simple, artistic stroke of using it naturally and sincerely."

NAVY LEAGUE CHEERS FREE TOLLS PLEA OF DR. LYMAN ABBOTT

NEW YORK, April 17.—The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott, close associate of Theodore Roosevelt, made a flat declaration in favor of the exemption of coastwise shipping from Panama Canal tolls at the banquet of the Navy League, opposing President Wilson's stand. A burst of cheers greeted his statement.

"Shall we repeal the toll exemption provision in the Panama Canal bill?" asked Dr. Abbott, switching suddenly from his remarks on an adequate navy. "I don't propose to discuss this question. But personally I believe we had a right to exempt American ships from tolls."

500 DINERS CHEER.

Instantly the 500 diners broke into a storm of applause which caused Secretary of the Navy Daniels, who was the guest of the evening to turn from the speaker and study the diners intently. The applause lasted a full minute.

Continuing, Dr. Abbott said views variant as to the wisdom of repeal. He added the opinion that if a decision was reached to repeal the tolls provision it should be coupled with a strong statement of our rights in the premises.

"The one question for us to decide," continued Dr. Abbott, "is our duty to ourselves and to posterity. There should be no waiver of our rights by reason of any fear as to what may happen in the future."

Previously Dr. Abbott had discussed in an equally frank manner the policy of the administration with regard to Mexico. There was anarchy across the border, said Dr. Abbott, where two bands of brigands have murdered Americans, Germans, Spaniards, and robbed and looted.

TALKS OF PATIENT WAITING.

"We have waited with patience," said the speaker, and his audience broke into a laugh. "And now, at last, we have sent the navy there. The critics say, 'It is queer you have done nothing when Americans were killed, but now, when the flag has been insulted, you send the navy down.' But I prefer to do things—better late than never."

At this sally the throng of diners once more applauded.

"I do not criticise the administration," said Dr. Abbott. "What we ought to have done I do not discuss. But we ought not to ask our people now what it will cost in such matters, but what chivalry and fair treatment demand of us."

Because he is a Christian minister and a lover of peace, Dr. Abbott declared, he is in favor of the maintenance of an adequate navy.

SOUTH SENDS BIG DELEGATION TO FIGHT AGAINST TOLLS REPEAL

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—A delegation of bankers, manufacturers and merchants will leave New Orleans Saturday night in special cars for Washington to back up the Southern demand for the preservation of free tolls for American ships through the Panama Canal.

The delegates adopted resolutions saying in part:

"It is the sense of this committee that American ships in domestic commerce should not be required to pay Panama Canal tolls.

"We are unable to see wherein foreign shipping is affected by the exemption of American coastwise ships. We do not see where the Hay-Pauncefote treaty should properly be involved in our domestic shipping. The revival or death knell of the American merchant marine hangs on the decision of Congress.

"We resent any effort that may be made to in any manner embarrass or make difficult the development of our coastwise trade or to deprive the American people of the benefits to be derived from the lowest possible cost of transportation of the necessities of life."

LONDON PAPER SAYS THE ISSUE IS ONE OF "DOMESTIC POLICY"

The following liberal and unprejudiced discussion of the Panama Canal tolls question is an editorial reprinted from the London Daily Telegraph:

"We on our side should endeavor to realize the peculiar difficulties of the situation as to Panama. What the Americans have to deal with there is not a mere question of canal tolls. It is not even a question solely of American versus foreign shipping.

"Interwoven with it are various domestic questions of greater or less difficulty. Perhaps the most difficult of them all arises out of the competition between American coasting steamers and the transcontinental railways. Part of the object of exempting coasting vessels from canal tolls was to enable them to reduce their freight rates and to force a similar reduction on the transcontinental roads.

"This, it will be observed, is a purely domestic affair. Foreigners are not interested in it except, perhaps, indirectly, as holders of transcontinental railroad stocks. The coasting lines are practically all owned in the states, and that may explain the special favor with which they are regarded in Congress.

"One of the most surprising of the many peculiar features in the agitation is its popularity in commercial circles. Not a single chamber of commerce of any importance objected to the exemption of American shipping. On the contrary, the chief of them all was rather inclined to support it.

"There are really two issues involved—a special one affecting the administration of the Panama Canal and a much broader one involving the moral and legal right of the United States under existing treaties to discriminate in favor of its own coastwise shipping.

"While foreign critics naturally fix their attention chiefly on the first issue, it is equally natural that in the minds of American citizens the second should be most prominent.

"Discrimination in favor of domestic shipping is already a recognized principle of American policy. It has been applied in a variety of ways, and this, it may be contended, is the first occasion on which its application has been challenged."

'Mind Your Own Business,' Is Answer to British

By CHARLES J. BONAPARTE, formerly United States Attorney-General.

The British Government has undertaken to forbid our doing for American ships engaged in our coastwise trade what nobody questions its right to do, if it chooses, for British ships engaged in the like trade between British ports.

It assumes to say that, because we have spent some five hundred millions of dollars, more or less, of our own money on the canal and are its undisputed owners, we have less right to deal as we please with American ships using the canal and their owners than foreign powers have to deal as they please with their ships and ship owners using the canal, although no one of these foreign powers has paid a penny toward building it, and although they use it only under our license contained in a treaty with one of them.

I think a suitable answer to such a claim is:

"Mind your own business"; and I believe that answer, couched in appropriate language, would be given by an administration inspired by a genuine American patriotism to any foreign power advancing the claim.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young: Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.

HACKETT HAS AMBITION TO BECOME PEER

LONDON, April 17.—Now that James K. Hackett, the actor, has become a wealthy man through an inheritance from a niece, he has an ambition to become a peer. If he persists in his present determination he will file a claim to be recognized as Baron Hackett of Hackettstown and Sheldon Abbey, County Carlow, Ireland.

According to his pedigree, which Mr. Hackett has worked out, he is descended from Heket, one of the barons who came over from France with William the Conqueror, whose name, he asserts, is inscribed in Williams' "Six and Thirty Nobles," dated 1066, upon a pillar of Battle Abbey, near Hastings.

Wilson, secretary of the American Legation in Guatemala, which will occur in London, April 25. Miss Bogle has been studying vocal music five years. She possesses a superb soprano voice and she is giving up a brilliant operatic career to marry Wilson.

ITCHING ECZEMA IS DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Use Like Cold Cream to Subdue Irritation and Clear the Skin.

Constant or intermittent irritation producing itching and red, angry Eczema patches on the skin is readily relieved with bold-sulphur cream. The moment it is applied the itching stops and the healing begins, says a noted dermatologist.

It effects such prompt relief, even in aggravated Eczema, that it is a never-ending source of amazement to physicians.

For many years bold-sulphur cream has occupied a secure position in the treatment of cutaneous eruptions by reason of its cooling, parasite-destroying properties. It is not only parasiticidal, but also anti-pruritic and antiseptic, and nothing has ever been found to take its place in overcoming irritable and inflammatory affections of the skin. While not always establishing a permanent cure, yet in every instance it instantly stops the agonizing itching, subdues the irritation and heals the inflamed raw skin right up, and it is often years later before any Eczema eruption again appears.

Those troubled should get from any pharmacist an ounce of bold-sulphur cream and apply it directly upon the affected skin like you would any ordinary cold-cream. It isn't unpleasant, and the prompt relief afforded is very welcome, particularly when the Eczema is accompanied with itching.

East to Get Branches of the Federal Banks

WASHINGTON, April 17.—That the organization committee of the new currency system has decided not to establish branch banks in cities east of the Mississippi River was denied at the Treasury Department today. Reports that the committee had determined that Washington, Baltimore, New Orleans, Louisville, Pittsburgh and Cincinnati do not need branch banks because they are within easy communication of each other were characterized as ridiculous.

GIRL, 'DUMMY' HEAD IN FRAUD OF $4,000,000

NEW YORK, April 17.—High finance, involving plots by which $4,000,000 worth of fictitious notes flooded the country, was revealed yesterday, at a hearing in bankruptcy before Special Referee George H. Russell in the Federal Building.

As a central figure in the plot is Jeannette C. Jaffe, twenty years old, who appeared as the head of a fictitious company whose name was signed to checks running into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Her testimony on the stand revealed that she was only a dummy in the employ of the office of Max M. Hart, one of the main figures in the investigation which has revealed a web of financial deals involving the ruin of a dozen companies, the unloading of $500,000 worth of questionable notes upon fifteen banks, and the wrecking of the First National Bank of Hackensack.

The investigations as shown by the developments yesterday is under the direction of the Department of Justice through Inspectors Munson and Adams, and under the guidance of L. W. Gammon, head of the protective department of the American Bankers' Association, in charge of Burns detectives who have been shadowing the principals for the last three months.

Grease Collectors Slip into Court

Rivalry in the soap-grease collecting business in East Boston is keen. Seeing a Dove street housewife at the door with a pail of the grease, John Lawler and Howard Pitts, rival collectors, today raced to the house, upset the grease over themselves and the woman and then battled in the street while the woman ran screaming into the house. An hour later each paid a $5 fine in the East Boston court for fighting.

'COP'S' DREAM WAS SCREAM; A SONG OF STEAM

Anderson of Station 2, "copper" trusty, tried and true, in his uniform of blue, heard a noise. He was covering his beat down on lonely Federal street when he surely—we repeat—heard a noise.

"Twas a gentle clink-clink-clink.

"Ah," said Anderson, "I think I've got one bold burglar gink in the act." Then he sleuthed him soft and low to the Stuart-Howland Co., listened, then observed: "Just so, that's a fact."

To his box the "copper" ran, telephoned to the station man, "Send 'em quickly as you can—the reserves." In a moment, failing not, bold reserves were on the spot, planning to land the burglar what he deserves.

Call the building "super." He makes an entrance with his key. Gently, gently, as can be, all sneak in. Now the robber is found out. Steam it was, beyond a doubt, pounding, pounding roundsabout—such a din.

Back they go to Station 2. Nothing else for them to do. Plot to put a burglar through wasn't ripe. If you ask of Anderson: "Was there really anyone?" he will say, "Don't worry, son; it's a pipe."

Calls Wineless Launching 'Stupid'

LONDON, April 17.—G. K. Chesterton, writing to the AMERICAN this week, deals with the order for naming America's latest battleship with a bottle of water instead of the usual wine. He says: "It is not easy to deal adequately with the rich stupidity of that idea; it is about five feet thick; stupidity obscuring stupidity until one can hardly see more than one of the jokers at a time."

Anti-kamnia is largely used and prescribed as a pain reliever in the treatment of headache, neuralgia and rheumatism. It is put up in tablet and is pleasant to take. All druggists dispense them, and every household should have a box of tablets in the medicine box. Ask for A-K tablets.

SCHOOLBOY STUMPS THE GOVERNOR AND WINS HERO'S FAME

Betty Boyd and Albert Horsman, heroine and hero of Governor's day at the Prince school on Newbury street.

When we were boys there were always two or three heroes in school. One was the Boy with the Sore Toe; another might be the Boy who could Dislocate His Thumbs. Or even the Boy with a White Eye. But we never had a Boy who Stumped the Governor.

And the Prince School, on Newbury street, has.

Albert Horsman, who is ten years old and lives at No. 113 Berkeley street, is the Boy who Stumped the Governor. Today he received a "Palmer Button" for penmanship, during the Patriots' Day exercises at the school, and his classmates gave him an ovation. Another hero—or heroine—at the school is Betty Boyd, an editor of the school paper, "The Prince Prints," who by sending a sample copy to His Excellency, Governor Walsh, drew a visit from the Governor.

His Excellency came to thank Miss Boyd; and later visited each room in the school. In one he asked the boys to name the capitals of several States. Then came Albert Horsman's inspiration. He rose:

"Governor Walsh, I don't believe you know the capital of one State!"

"Try me," smiled the Governor—in all confidence.

"What is the capital of the State of Matrimony?" was Albert's puzzler, and the Governor was stumped.

"I pass," said the Governor.

"Tuloh," cried Albert in all glee—and won undying fame thereby, as the Boy who Stumped the Governor.

MORE BILLARD 'COONS' HUNTED DOWN BY FOLK

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Samuel Hemingway, president of the National Bank of New Haven, and Samuel Morehouse of New Haven, through Attorney Homer S. Cummings, today notified Chief Counsel Folk of the Interstate Commerce Commission that they also will give testimony desired by the commission in its investigation of the relations of the Billard Company with the New Haven Railroad system.

Cummings indicated that Hemingway and Morehouse are willing to produce books and papers desired by the commission if this will prevent criminal prosecution under the compulsory testimony act. Cummings will arrive here tonight from Stamford, Ct. Folk already had the promises of Harry D. Whipple, president of the Merchants National Bank of New Haven, and Edward Field of that city to testify and to give all books and papers in their possession to the commission.

"If these four gentlemen keep their promises, as I expect they will," said Folk today, "there will be no criminal prosecution. If they break faith indictments will follow. I have established a precedent by invoking criminal action, and I shall continue to use the same methods with all recalcitrant witnesses."

Folk today received word from John L. Billard of the Billard Company denying that he had characterized Folk's threat of a criminal action as a bluff.

Coxey's Army Halts March to Beg Food

CANTON, April 17.—"General" Jacob S. Coxey's army of jobless was defeated thirty minutes this morning on account of a strong desire on the part of the marchers to eat before resuming their journey to the national capital. Food has been scarce and the struggling army has subsisted largely upon charity and slept in brick kilns, lumber yards and other places.

After the marchers had rustled enough handouts to appease their appetites the squad started toward Alliance.

ALLSTON FIRE CAUSE IS TRACED

The loss of eight lives in the fire at the Melvin apartments in Allston Tuesday morning was primarily due to the lack of fire escapes, it was decided door between the basement and the locker room of the building, according to testimony given by Medical Examiner George H. Magrath, District Fire Chief Joseph Hanlon and State detectives at a secret inquest before State Fire Marshal George C. Neal today.

The immediate origin of the fire, these officials believed, was in one of the tenants lockers. It was caused probably from spontaneous combustion.

LAW-MAKERS ADMITTED.

The only persons except witnesses who were admitted to the secret hearing were members of the subcommittee on Boston fire hazard of the Legislative Committee on Metropolitan Affairs. These subcommittees were ex-Mayor Henry E. Bothfeld of Newton, and Representative Herbert A. Wilson and Charles S. Lawler of Boston. They were allowed to listen to the testimony to assure them in finding a fire hazard bill that the committee is not considering.

Medical Examiner Magrath and District Chief McDonough went through the fire ruins after a special session to the basement on Wednesday afternoon, following the discovery of the body of Miss Irene Hazel in the basement debris.

Both officials found that two of the tenants' lockers in the basement were practically destroyed, showing that the fire undoubtedly started in one of the two. One locker was used for storage by Miss McGowan, one of the tenants. She had kept there a barrel, some curtain fixtures and other things, all of which were charred. The other or from the lockers had been empty before the fire.

A Word to Flat Dwellers

If you live in an apartment building of over three stories WITHOUT FIRE ESCAPES, notify the City Editor of the AMERICAN. The AMERICAN proposes to see that the PRESENT laws regarding construction and fire escapes are ENFORCED and will work to have new and more stringent laws passed to SAFEGUARD the lives of flat dwellers.

LIVE IN A FIRETRAP? NOTIFY THE AMERICAN

Flat dwellers of greater Boston, in addition to the unusually better class districts, were unpleasantly startled today to find that the Melvin apartments on Commonwealth avenue, Allston, where eight tenants perished by fire or were driven from their homes last Tuesday morning, was pronounced better equipped with safety appliances than the majority of apartment houses in that vicinity.

There are said to be scores of apartment houses and hotels in that vicinity and elsewhere in the city that are not even equipped with fire escapes.

The AMERICAN proposes to see that the present laws on construction and fire escapes are enforced.

If you live in an apartment building of over three stories WITHOUT ANY FIRE ESCAPES, will you kindly notify the Editor of the AMERICAN.

These startling revelations of the absence of fire escapes in Allston followed a turn of that district by the sub-committee on fire hazard.

Under the guidance of police and fire officials the sub-committee inspected the fire ruins at the Melvin, noted the fire escapes, the width of hallways and other points bearing on safety. They also inspected other buildings in the neighborhood.

It was Representative Lawler who said that they found the Melvin better protected than a majority of apartment houses in that vicinity.

Speaking of inadequate section, Representative Lawler added:

"The situation is in the hands of the legislature, and the legislature must be given to understand exactly what the public wants. They will be up against a battle at the State House on the part of certain affected real estate interests, but I do not think all of them—to block anything likely to affect the extremely sensitive "pocket nerve."

SURE WIFE DIED FROM BLOWS AT INSANE ASYLUM

Joseph F. Graham of No. 729 Wood avenue, Hyde Park, the husband of Alice B. Graham, who died at the Worcester State Hospital recently, declares she was a victim of foul play. The autopsy by Dr. Frederick H. Baker of the hospital showed two fractures at the base of the skull and hemorrhage of the brain.

"My opinion is that my wife's death was caused from a blow," said Mr. Graham, "and from the bruises that I saw myself Saturday evening at the institution where my wife died, she was struck a blow with a bunch of keys attached to a key ring and chain.

"When my daughter went to see her mother three days before she died she had no such marks, but when I was hurriedly sent for Saturday evening I noticed the marks behind the left ear."

While I was at the institution I was trying to determine what would cause the bruise, when a woman attendant came into the room with a bunch of keys attached to a chain she was swinging.

"I said to the woman, 'You carry quite a lot of keys!' she replied that she did. It was then that it came to my mind that my wife was probably struck a blow as she laid on her right side. I at once became more serious and inquired from the officials if my wife was assaulted.

"As soon as I began to make inquiries it was suggested by some one that I consent to an autopsy being performed, and not until then did they offer to investigate my wife's death.

"I want to state that my wife was not suffering from bruises on the head when she entered the hospital, Dr. Frederick H. Baker of the hospital said that he learned that my wife fell at the hospital and hurt her head, but when I noticed him in the room to fall or who assisted her back to bed, he said he could not find out that anybody did.

"My wife fell at our home in Dorchester two weeks before she went to the hospital, but that was over five weeks ago. Dr. Baker said that my wife had bruises on her head when she came to the hospital, and he intimated they caused her death. What I want to see, how is it that a person with a fractured skull, as the autopsy reports showed, which I have in my hand, could be up and walking around?

"At the time I saw my wife she had some skin landed on her right side and in no way injured her head. When I next went to the State Hospital this last time she had a awful dread of an overall nurse there, and told my daughter in the presence of another person that she knew if she went back to the hospital she would never come back alive. She was afraid of one of the attendants.

Governor Walsh decided today to honor the requisition of the Governor of Illinois for the extradition of Hong Ling Hong, charged with the murder of Mark Chang in Chicago in February, 1912.

Hong's attorney, Colonel E. L. Logan, plans to ask for a writ of habeas corpus to block extradition.

Mark Chang was president of the Hep Sing Tong. Hong is charged with killing him in a tong war. But Hong claims he is not Hong at all but is the Chicago officials claim, but Kin Too, an entirely different man.

Colonel Logan in arguing before the governor said: "This man is not the murderer. The rules of the Hep Sing Tong, I understand, require five deaths in payment for the death of one of their number. Hong must be properly identified before he can be extradited."

Assistant Attorney General Leon R. Ekes recommended the extradition request be granted.

Novelist and Editor Find Treasure Chest

NEW ORLEANS, April 17.—Charles Tenney Jackson, novelist and Frederick MacKenzie, editor have returned a month's cruise around the various islands in the Gulf of Mexico. The men sought the treasure supposed to have been buried by La Fitte, the notorious Barataria pirate.

MacKenzie stated that he found an old chest made of wood, which when broken open was found to contain a pair of old swords, one of the old Spanish style, a silver candle snuffer, a roll of red bronze cloth and a miller's compass.

Fair to Have Great Religious Displays

SAN FRANCISCO, April 17.—Over religious displays without precedent in world exposition activities, will be exhibited at the Panama-Pacific Exposition in 1915. Plans for one of these, a beautiful reproduction of St. Peter's church at Rome, to be installed by the Roman Catholic Church at a cost of a quarter of a million dollars, are already well advanced. The other exhibit, on a more lavish scale, will be made by all Protestant denominations of the world.

Jilted by Wireless, Count Leaps Into Sea

NEW YORK, April 17.—Mystery surrounds the disappearance at sea of Count Domenico Calice, a young Italian, from the liner Sardegna. Just arrived from Naples and Genoa. Soon after the steamer left Gibraltar Calice received a radiogram from his sweetheart in Naples. The contents of the message made him despondent, fellow passengers say. He was jilted, and two days later he was missed. He left $1,000 in money with his baggage.

Premonition Saves Aged Woman's Life

POMONA, Cal., April 17.—A premonition of danger which caused the housekeeper to remain awake after she had gone to bed was the means of preventing a serious fire loss and possible injury to aged Mrs. Sarah Short. Mrs. Short is eighty years old and she had retired.

The housekeeper heard a peculiar sound and then she saw an unusual light beneath a closet door. She opened this and found the interior in flames. The contents of the closet were destroyed.

26 NATIONS ON THE ARABIC AS BIG LINER DOCKS

Almost every nationality was represented among the passengers of the Arabic of the White Star line which docked today at the Hoosac Tunnel docks in Charlestown. It was the most cosmopolitan gathering of immigrants that have come to this country in years.

Among the nationalities represented were: Bohemians, Magyars, Croats, Belgians, Danes, Germans, Greeks, Italians, Dutch, Norwegians, Swedes, Roumanians, Lithuanians, Letts, Poles, Russians, Finns, Chinese, Spaniards, Turks, English, Irish, Scotch, Central Americans and Canadians.

There were 183 cabin and 740 steerage passengers.

The Arabic stopped at Portland, Maine, last night and debarked forty-eight cabin and 218 steerage passengers, whose destination is Canada.

Prominent among the passengers was Miss Lillian Whiting, the Boston author, who returns from a long sojourn in London. In London Miss Whiting was the guest of A. [illegible] Wilberforce of Westminster Abbey.

Another passenger of note was the Rev. Thomas A. Rahilly of Cork, Ireland superior general of the Presentation Brothers, one of several educational orders in the Emerald Isle. He is to make a tour of the Eastern part of the United States and Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. James Peters of Malden, who spent their honeymoon abroad, were also among the cabin passengers.

Parsons Suit Won By Depew's Niece

NEW YORK, April 17.—Miss Anna Paulding of Peekskill, a niece of former United States Senator Chauncey M. Depew, won a verdict of $1,595.21 against Herbert Parson, Republican leader. She alleged she rented her home in Washington to Parsons, that he broke the lease and damaged the furnishings.

Fish Fond of Music; Easily Lured by Bells

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 17.—That fish love music and that they can be made to take the bait quicker when they have music with their meals is the belief of F. L. Dow of Venice.

Dow believed that fish could be charmed with music, so he bought a string of small bells, and fastened these on his fish line near the hooks.

When he pulled the line up and let it go down again with the weight of the sinker the fish were attracted to his hooks when they ignored the bait on the hooks of all the other fishermen.

Identify Girl Aphasia Victim

NEW MILFORD, Ct., April 17.—A young woman, who was found wandering about town, has been identified as Miss Tillis Cubig, twenty-one, whose parents live on a farm in Prospect, Ct. She left the house where she was staying in Goshen on Monday and walked here, a distance of twenty miles. She has been a victim of aphasia.

MAYOR REFUSES TO GIVE NAMES OF TRIO HE ACCUSES OF GRAFT

of Townsend street and Humboldt avenue, Roxbury, that he had been approached by an architect who gave him to understand that for $100 he would make certain the securing of the moving picture license Harris is after. Harris did not pay the money. He stated he preferred not to give the architect's name.

Curley declined that if he found that anyone who applies for a moving picture license has paid anyone else to use influence to secure such license, he will refuse to grant the license, and if he discovers any evidence in this direction after a license has been granted the license will be revoked.

The Mayor's statement of the situation reads in part as follows:

"My attention has been directed to the fact that certain individuals have been attempting to extract money from persons desiring to do business with the city or who are seeking concessions. I am informed that this money is supposed to be paid to induce me to favor certain individuals in the purchase of supplies, and to favor certain locations for moving picture men. I learned this last Friday. I got into communication with Police Commissioner O'Meara and asked that one of his best men be detailed to investigate. Inspector Burke has been detailed on the case.

"Now this matter came to my attention when a gentleman came to this office last Friday who represented a lumber concern, saying that he desired to sell lumber to the city. I told him to file an application with the supply department in the regular way. He said that he thought this would be useless unless the supply department was notified to give him special consideration. I told him that regardless of what the custom may have been in the past, during the next four years no one would get special consideration, and that he would get a square deal and no more in the matter of the purchase of supplies.

"He stated that he believed that he was entitled to more consideration than that. I asked him why. He said he had paid $200 to defray the outstanding indebtedness consequent to the campaign.

"I asked him to name the person to whom he paid the money. He refused to tell me. I informed him that unless he did tell me he would not sell any lumber to the city in the next four years. Then he gave me the name of the man. Then I got in touch with Commissioner O'Meara.

Mayor Curley and His Charges of Bribery

He Should Give the Facts to the District Attorney

Mayor Curley states that there are people about town who are attempting to hold up those who have business with the city.

Mr. Curley is reported to have stated that these men have pretended to represent him and to hold themselves out as able to OBTAIN FAVORS FOR A MONEY CONSIDERATION.

These attempts are CRIMES, of which the District Attorney should be cognizant. They are far WORSE than picking a pocket or breaking and entering.

The AMERICAN suggests that the Mayor present his CHARGES to the District Attorney; and if he fails to do so, the AMERICAN suggests that the District Attorney call him before the Grand Jury and compel him to reveal what he knows.

Are You Constipated?

Rheumasalts Insures Quick and Safe Relief.

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all its miseries and ills, is to do as with it is to dissolve a little Rheumasalts in water and drink it while it is effervescing.

Rheumasalts is a scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, sallow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then you need Rheumasalts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "dopping" yourself with drug-forming, heart depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumasalts. It is delicious to the taste and acts promptly without griping or nausea. Rheumasalts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

The next time you need a laxative, ask your druggist for a 25c, 50c or $1.00 bottle of Rheumasalts, or send us $1.00 and if it isn't the genuine Rheumasalts, don't take "something just as good." Send 25c, 50c or $1.00 to The Rheumasalts Company, Dept. 154, Minneapolis, Minn., for a bottle which we will send you by return mail.

SENATORS SCORE PLAN TO SALUTE MEXICAN FLAG

BATTLESHIP FLEET HURRIES ON TOWARD MEXICAN WATERS

What these details were he declined to say, nor would he discuss the situation in clearer language.

Huerta Plans New Demands.

At the same time the secretary to the President announced that President Wilson had deferred his week-end visit to his family at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., until tomorrow night, and that he would be absent from Washington only a short time. Secretary Bryan will remain in Washington during the President's absence instead of going to Miami, Fla., as he intended.

It is the impression in Washington that President Huerta, having promised to comply with the American demands for a salute to the Stars and Stripes, now is trying to hedge this compliance with all sorts of stipulations and counter demands.

These the United States probably will not accept, and the Mexican dictator will have an excuse for further delay in ordering the actual firing of the salute.

A diplomat conversant with every move in the Mexican situation today summed up the present status of the affair by saying:

"The Tampico incident will not be closed until the echo of the last saluting gun dies away in the distance."

To Rescue Foreign Refugees.

In a dispatch to the Navy Department today Admiral Fletcher at Vera Cruz stated that he had chartered the Ward liner Guatemoc for use in sending foreign refugees from Mexico city and other inland points out of Mexico.

The Esperanza, a passenger steamer chartered some time ago, will remain at Vera Cruz.

A small guard and signal men under the command of Lieutenant Fletcher have been put aboard. The Esperanza will remain at Vera Cruz until further orders.

The armada of battleships is still on its way to Mexico. As a result of past experiences in the Mexican situation the administration resolved to take no chances of Huerta failing to live up to his promise.

The Cabinet is in accord with the new policy of the President and approves his plan to compel the salute if the demand runs with salutes in honor of the Mexican ericolor.

TO SALUTE MEXICAN FLAG.

Under the customary practice, which will be observed on the occasion of the interchange of salutes, the Stars and Stripes will be raised at the main mast of a Mexican national vessel or at a Mexican fort or at some conspicuous point on Mexican territory, to be designated by agreement, and saluted by the firing of twenty-one guns.

At return salute in guns of equal number will be fired by American warships, which will fly the Mexican flag at a masthead while the salute is being fired. The gun-for-gun method mentioned in the navy department formal statement provides that the shots of the salute shall be fired alternately; that is, the Mexicans will fire the first shot to which the Americans will respond and so on until each side has fired twenty-one times.

The administration feels that its decision to return the salute of the Mexican government is amply justified by custom and precedent and that the United States will lose no prestige in the eyes of the other powers.

At the navy department queries as to whether or not the war fleet would be recalled by wireless were unanswered, although a belief prevailed that nearly all the ships and perhaps the entire fleet would be deflected, some of the ships going to Guantanamo and others returning to the ports from which they departed.

LONDON PRESS RAPS WILSON AGAIN; FINDS HUERTA 'SAVES FACE'

LONDON, April 17.—The London papers, commenting on the Tampico incident, continue to criticise President Wilson's policy.

The Daily Telegraph says: "It seems plain that Huerta's face is thoroughly well saved, and a very considerable strengthening is given his position in the eyes of his countrymen. He will call the acknowledgment of his salute a measure of recognition, and if the Mexicans regard it in that light, it matters little what Washington may say about it."

The Daily Graphic, describing the Tampico offence as "a trumpery affair as compared with the murder of Benton," asks what President Wilson proposes to do in the Benton case."

MORAL VICTORY.

The Post says: "It is a moral victory for the United States, which will leave Huerta just where he was. President Wilson's policy is not quite intelligible to observers outside the United States. It is a policy, not of non-intervention, but rather of intervention, without the trouble and expense of using force. But for the Monroe Doctrine, it is probable that several European governments would co-operate to secure the re-establishment of order and the protection of their interests in Mexico."

The Daily Mail says: "The world will now hope that President Wilson will show equal firmness in forcing upon the Constitutionalists that respect for the American flag which he required from Huerta."

The Times finds Washington's treatment of Huerta in curious contrast to the unprotesting mildness with which the United States has suffered insults and rebuffs and wrongful injuries at the hands of Villa and Carranza.

EXTRA EXPENSE TO NAVY FOR SALUTE WILL BE $130,000.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Experts of the Navy and War Departments say that the expense of forcing the salute to the flag has so far been equally borne by the navy.

The Navy Department says that the battleships of the class which have been ordered to Mexico use from 100 to 140 tons of coal a day, and cost of $5 a ton.

The battleships which are steaming for Tampico are six in number and they will use coal at that rate about fifteen days. This makes a total coaling expense of about $40,000 up to the arrival at Tampico.

The other vessels which are under orders to sail are twenty-four in number, and each of these will use up about sixty tons of coal a day and will be steaming, going and coming, for about twenty days, averaging a total cost of $90,000.

The battleships and the smaller ships will therefore cost the government in extra coal $130,000. Other expense incident to the hurried taking on of supplies will add to the total.

600 at Clan Dance.

Six hundred attended the sixteenth annual concert and ball of the Clan Ramsay, O. S. C., in Intercolonial Hall, Roxbury. Chief James Urquhart of the Boston Caledonian Club and the heads of other Scottish societies were guests.

WILSON POLICY MAKES U. S. LAUGHING STOCK BUT WON'T STOP WAR

By ALFRED HENRY LEWIS.

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The town changes color like a tree toad. Yesterday it was war. Today one could hear only of peace. Mr. Wilson had been told Huerta would fire that important salute. What bliss! The deep brown box-office eye of Mr. [illegible] grandmother. His hopes of that $6,000 Nobel prize again preen their feathers as we resume our unpleasant position as the laughing stock of the diplomatic world.

And yet you are not to despair, Huerta may yet learn that in spite of Mr. Bryan and others of similar paleface kidney, Americans haven't wholly forgotten what a gun is for. The white flag is up today; it may be down tomorrow and supplanted by the flag of battle.

Call it war or what you please, you are going into Mexico. Yesterday one was not so sure. Ordering the fleet to Tampico did not convince. We had stood so much. We had so tamely endured snub and insult and outrage. The patience of the administration seemed inexhaustible.

AMERICAN SPIRIT DEAD.

Also, whom did the administration consult? Not such as Senator Fall, with a working knowledge of Mexico. Advice was asked only of Folk, who knew no more of who and what dwelt south of the Rio Grande than he did of local government in Timbuctoo. Knowing these things and having been wrong as all unchecked and outrage unavenged, who should be blamed for thinking that the American spirit was dead?

That Mexico and Mexicans might do as they murderously pleased and that we would groan when we didn't grin and tamely bear it?

What I learned today, however, gives warrant for a better hope. There is reason for believing we are even now on our warlike way to Mexico.

A Pacific blockade? Nonsense. A Pacific blockade would close the Mexican ports only to American ships. The ships of Europe would go in and out unchecked. That was our own construction of Pacific blockade when, during the Grecian-Turkish war certain European powers blockaded Crete. There will one day be a blockade by us of the Mexican ports, but with nothing "peaceful" about it.

"BIG MONEY" THE FORCE.

There is a big outside force which has been brought to bear upon Washington. Its effort is directed towards stiffening to the war point the White House backbone. That big outside influence has its own axe to grind. And yet who should publicly care?

Publics are concerned not with motives but with deeds. The big force is throwing its weight on the side of war, which is the side of patriotism and justice and a right Americanism.

There is but one force big enough and strong enough to hold a nation's policy and that is and has ever been Big Money. Mr. Wilson is honest. But you must not stop there. There is also Mr. Wilson's innocence and inexperience.

Also, no one need shy at the name of "Big Money." There has never been a moment when it was without Washington importance. It had weight with Mr. Harrison, with Mr. Cleveland, with Mr. McKinley, with Mr. Roosevelt, with Mr. Taft, precisely as it has present weight with Mr. Wilson.

The man most listened to by Mr. Wilson is Mr. Edward House.

Mr. House has a White House pass key. Every administration, from the beruffled silk-stockinged Washington, to the golf-playing Mr. Taft, has had its kitchen cabinet. The Wilson administration is no exception to this rule. Mr. House of the kitchen cabinet can talk to Mr. Wilson, and does —when none other can.

Mr. House has millions of dollars, and is of the Big Money peerage. The ties, social and commercial, between himself and the present Mr. Morgan are close and growing closer. When the elder Morgan died men said that he left his son his fortune. That was wrong. The present Mr. Morgan didn't inherit his father's millions, those millions inherited him.

But Mr. Morgan has rebelled. Today he and those paternal millions are at war for the mastery. Shall those millions control Morgan, or shall Mr. Morgan control those millions? The struggle is breathlessly hot and fierce. But the man in the end will win; the millions must submit.

MR. HOUSE'S INFLUENCE.

That is the true tale. Mr. Morgan would save steel, just now being hunted as a rebate criminal to its stock destruction. Mr. House is willing to help.

Mr. House is showing Mr. Wilson that to push valorously in and force a war with Mexico would measurably mill the tooth of popular criticism now busy over "watchful waiting" and the Wilsonian determination to change an American into an Anglo-American canal.

Such a war would help steel, now threatened with prosecution for its $60,000,000 rebate crimes. Wherefore, Mr. Morgan whispers to Mr. House; Mr. House whispers to Mr. Wilson, and all with the final hope that Mr. Wilson, honest, innocent and inexperienced, full of troubles of his own, can be made to see that war—grim war—would prove his present, best and truest friend.

Huerta may order the salute demanded by Mr. Wilson. No matter, it will be war, not for what Mexicans have done to us, but for what the Interstate Commerce Commission is doing and threatening to do to steel.

FLEET HURRIES SOUTH; TO KEEP WARSHIPS IN MEXICAN WATERS

WASHINGTON, April 17.—Determined to be prepared for failure on the part of President Huerta to salute the American flag at Tampico, the Atlantic fleet today continued its southward course.

The receipt of dispatches from Mexico City announcing that President Huerta is hedging his original promise to fire the salute with all sorts of stipulations concerning the manner of firing and the attendant ceremonies convinced officials at the Navy Department that it is necessary for the fleet to reach Tampico at the earliest possible moment.

Even if the salute be fired, it was learned at the Navy Department today, the major portion of the fleet will remain in Mexican waters "to protect American interests," and the remainder of the great fighting squadron will be kept at Guantanamo, where it can be rushed to Mexican waters promptly.

The General Vehicle Company, Inc., the World's largest manufacturer of Electric Commercial Vehicles, announces

G.V. Mercedes Trucks

The General Vehicle Company is one of the strongest factors in the motor truck field, some say the strongest. It enjoys the confidence of the users of 4,000 G. V. Trucks, is conservatively managed and has ample resources. Its growth has vindicated the G. V. contention that the motor truck manufacturer can and should do business on the "old line" basis.

The G. V. Mercedes Gasoline Truck is our answer to the repeated demands of G. V. customers who need dual equipment, and an invitation to others who have nee d of a particularly efficient machine for long distance trucking. We have the sole American rights to build and sell Mercedes trucks, and the G. V. Mercedes will be a replica of the original in design, material and workmanship—not an "improved" and weakened model.

The Mercedes—
The World's Greatest Cross Country Truck

Gottlieb Daimler built and ran the first Mercedes automobile at Cannstatt, Germany, 28 years ago. To-day the sun never sets on the Daimler product. You know what the Mercedes pleasure car is—the winner of the last two Vanderbilt Cup Races and similar honors for the past 20 years.

The Mercedes truck is the cup winner in the commercial field:

The G. V. Mercedes truck is light and strong. The 6-ton chassis weighs 6,380 pounds or 25 per cent. less than most 5-ton trucks. It is a genuine cross country truck; one that adapts itself to American road conditions as it does to the roads of Russia, South Africa, and Brazil. It has the most unique and efficient drive of any heavy duty truck, at any price.

G. V. Mercedes 5-ton chassis. Note the clean design, the long wheel base and the straight frame. Has a turning radius of 26 feet. Absolutely in a class by itself.

The Mercedes truck is a known quantity in all climates. The G. V. Electric has been on the market 13 years. Mercedes trucks, 15 years old, are still doing good work, and a number of 12 year old G. V. Electric trucks are still earning dividends.

Therefore, we, and we only, can offer you the world's oldest and best Electric truck and the world's oldest and best Gasoline truck.

The G. V. policy of specific adaptability thus becomes amplified and strengthened. You can buy from us with every assurance of getting the best truck for your work in either field.

Make a note right now, before you forget it, to look into this new cross country truck. The more you like fine machinery, the more repaid you will feel by an inspection of the G. V. Mercedes.

SENATORS DENOUNCE WILSON BACKDOWN TO MEXICAN DICTATOR

WASHINGTON, April 17.—United States Senators and other members of Congress were strong today in their denunciation of President Wilson's settlement of the flag insult at Tampico by agreeing to return Huerta's enforced salute to the Stars and Stripes.

"The counter salute is baby play," declared Senator Brandegee. "Open bottle," was Senator Borah's caustic comment, and Senator Works denounced the settlement" as pusillanimous to say the least.

'American Blood Boils at Salute to Huerta'

NEW YORK, April 17.—Patrick Egan, who, as Minister to Chile, demanded in behalf of President Harrison and received within three days an apology and $75,000 damages for the killing of one and the injury of many American sailors who landed on Chile's shores from the cruiser Baltimore, said today to the AMERICAN:

"I have just read in a dispatch from Washington that under orders from President Wilson our fleet now on the way to Mexico is to fire a return salute in exchange for the salute that Huerta has been called upon to fire as a reparation for the insult to our flag.

"IF THAT NEWS IS TRUE, I CONSIDER IT IS A COMPLETE ABANDONMENT OF THE PROPER AMERICAN DIGNITY THAT SHOULD MAKE THE BLOOD OF EVERY DECENT MAN IN THE COUNTRY BOIL.

"It certainly will make this country the laughing stock of diplomatic circles throughout the world, and is the widest possible contrast from the position maintained by this country under former Presidents."

Weak Heart

Many people suffer from weak hearts. They may experience shortness of breath on exertion, pain over the heart, or dizzy feelings, oppressed breathing after meals or their eyes become blurred, the heart is not sufficiently strong to pump blood to the extremities, and they have cold hands and feet, or poor appetite because of weakened blood supply to the stomach. A heart tonic and alterative should be taken which has no bad after-effect. Such is which contains no dangerous narcotics or alcohol.

It helps the human system in the constant manufacture of rich, red blood. It helps the stomach to assimilate or take up the proper elements from the food, thereby helping digestion and curing dyspepsia, heart-burn and many uncomfortable symptoms, stops excessive tissue waste in convalescence from fevers; for the run-down, anaemic, thin-blooded people, the "Discovery" is refreshing and vitalizing.

In liquid or tablet form at most drug stores or send 50 one-cent stamps for trial box to Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y.

RITCHIE RETURNS TO RING A WINNER

By WILLIE RITCHIE—No. 6.

After witnessing a few of the four-round fights, I simply could not resist the temptation to get back into the game. I fought against it and tried my best, but the feeling was there, and that settled it. Besides, my friends kept coming to me and telling me how foolish I was to quit just when I had the chance to go to the front. They refused to give me a rest.

Finally I went to my boss and threw up the job. He was sorry to let me go, and, in fact, he offered me a nice raise if I would stick with the automobile business.

One night He was to be a big star then. Johnny McCarthy had just returned from Kansas City, where he had fought Packey McFarland a ten-round draw. I was now considered in his class, but I went after him just the same, and finally got the match.

Harry Ford, who is now manager of me, was then looking after the affairs of McCarthy. We were a [illegible] other, but from the way that Ford spoke about me up I realized that he did not think much of me as a fighter. He thought that he had the making of a champion in McCarthy.

That bricklayer gave me some battle. We went four rounds to a draw, and I kept at it hammer and tongs every inch of the way. He was rough and strong, and tossed me all around the ring. I could not box him at all, and when he did get in close he had the better of the mixups, so that sort of going was just what he liked.

After that battle I gave Reilly another chance, and again won the decision. Then I started after McCarthy once more, but our second match resulted in a draw. He was too rough and too strong for me.

Oxford Stars Practice at the Stadium

Champion Jackson Discusses Chances

Realizes He and His Mates Are "Up Against It"—Expects Strong Competition.

By A. N. S. Jackson,

Olympic champion at 1,500 metres; captain of the Oxford relay team and president of the Oxford University Athletic Association.

It would be as well, perhaps, to make a few general remarks on athletics at Oxford, by way of introducing to the American universities their prospective rivals—the Oxford relay team [illegible]

With regret we must admit that we have a very hazy idea of the system of American university life. At Oxford there would be no chance of confusing the [illegible] with [illegible] Cambridge. They are not at all synonymous. Each college at Oxford leads its own little life, quite apart from the university proper and the time it forms an integral part of the universities.

Each college has its own rugby [illegible] association football [illegible] rowing, cricket, hockey, tennis, running etc., and these games also have their own particular captains and secretaries. The best men in these various teams are selected to play for the university [illegible] matches or the college [illegible] as five or six men on the university team

The Oxford relay team arrived in Boston shortly after noon today and immediately went out to the Harvard Stadium for practice. They were met at the station by representatives of the Harvard Athletic Association.

After their workout, they will return to Providence late in the afternoon.

University Comes First With Men.

While there is, say, a varsity rugby football man on, a great many will go down and watch the match but more than double the number will be taking some form of exercise. Cricket, or that colleges may be competing against another at rugby football. In that case considerable of the university team comes first, and a man who is in the varsity team and whose college is also playing in another college at the same time will play for the varsity team.

The rivalry between each other all these sports is keen. There is the system of leagues and cup ties in running here are two kinds of competition in which colleges compete against each other—collegiate sports [illegible] each college sends representatives to compete in each of the ten events included in the intervarsity program and relay races).

The distance chosen is one mile; five runners are selected to run this mile, and they may determine to run whatever distances best suit the individuals in the team. For instance, one man may run 200 yards, another 2-3 yards, another 400 yards, and so on.

As a result of these combinations many men are discovered to be good runners who would not have taken up running at [illegible] but for the [illegible] have been invited to [illegible] for their college against another college.

Varsity Team Goal of All Athletes.

Great interest is manifested in the competitions as they help to train men by giving them experience in [illegible] and field events so that they may be the better fitted to represent [illegible] of themselves when they [illegible] Cambridge.

The [illegible] of a man's name in his college [illegible] performing in the [illegible] of the university. The [illegible] are [illegible] several [illegible] against other universities and clubs in order to "get used" so as to put up a good showing against Cambridge.

The matches against Cambridge are the most important fixtures in the [illegible] universities sports, and the rivalry between the college teams helps to produce the right material for forming a strong university team.

The good old tradition of university sport "sport as a sport"—is never allowed to wane, for the mere fact that there are always scores of [illegible] men—[illegible] of Blues who [illegible] [illegible] Captain of English Relay Team to Write Exclusively for Readers of American.

thy moral support to the present generation of undergraduates and who take as keen an interest now in seeing that the best traditions of sport are maintained at the present day as they did at the time when they themselves were in residence.

All the members of the present Oxford relay team are of course, from Oxford University, but not all from the same college. St. John's College supplies two, Balliol supplies one, Exeter the remaining one, and Brasenose [illegible] S. Taout is already back in training at Brown.

The Oxford team took advantage of [illegible] off there [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

What Dame Fashion Is Offering

Exclusive Paris Styles Fully Described

BY OLIVETTE

FASHION is in a most uncertain state—the only certainty of which seems to be that style is on her way somewhere else. Whether the antique and classic or the incroyable fashions will conquer the feminine world is yet an open question—but both modes are good.

We will illustrate today, on the extreme left, a simple and pretty costume of the classic style exploited by the Parisian pixy, "Aphrodite."

Emerald green crepe meteor is used to make this gown cut to simulate a tunic and lifted over the shoulder in a point held by a cameo. The other side of the bodice has a gathered chemisette developed in net of the same tone shirred softly over a foundation of white net.

The skirt is draped in great fullness which tightens at the bottom and crosses over at the left side, making a small pointed train.

A quaint cape of velvet in a combination of two shades of violet, the darker used for a lining, is used to complete this costume. It falls from a collar of fur, such as the Parisienne delights to use even in Summer, and may be draped as coquettishly or as classically as the wearer desires.

No. 2.

Of parchment crepe is this charming Summer cape of the burnous shape.

It is hooded in emerald velvet and has a straight band of the crepe embroidered on the shoulder in circles and arrows of emerald green.

There are two slits for the arms and between these, in front, the cape is lifted by a broad plait. A long point is raised and fastens beneath the hood to form the drapery of the front.

No. 3.

Nothing could be simpler than the original cape wrap illustrated by this picture, and yet it is just this swathed and draped effect which is the dominant note in Paris wraps this season and which it is impossible to attain unless the cut is just right.

This cape is of blue silk cachemir embroidered on the back with a design in white silk braid and floss.

At the back it hangs straight from shoulder to knee. In front it is slightly cutaway and is edged by a bank of white silk braid.

There is a small rolling collar of the same material, with an underslid bank of white satin which extends down the front.

The cape is darted in smoothly at the neck and there are several rows of passementerie buttons to cover this seaming. The material is caught at the wrists to stimulate the opening of a sleeve.

No. 4.

One of the smartest French houses has launched this afternoon frock of dull green crepe, called downward slope at the The bodice is a blouse of a delicate A band of cardinal velvet embroidered in Chinese style crosses the front and falls over the skirt to form a short panel finished by two original silk tassels.

The elbow sleeve is edged by a flounce of pointed net topped by two scalloped ends of embroidered tulle to lower effect.

The neck is similarly treated.

The skirt has a new effect of width at the bottom, as have all the new models launched by this house. There is just a bit of gathering at the waist, a decided narrowness at the knees, where it is scalloped in three superimposed parts of round scallops so shaped as to give width at the bottom. A cascade of tulle laid over the side, gives a light, dainty effect to this frock.

CHAPTER V.

SCIPIO felt sorry for the peasant youth sitting on the bench with his head in his hands. The colored attendant in Director Zimmer's office had been the medium through which more than one stage beauty, realizing that now the great world was at her feet, has severed all relations with her humble kinfolk.

"She can't see you," said Scipio, touching Hans on the shoulder. "Here's a her note."

"Dear Friend Hans: It will be impossible to see you, as I have an engagement to witness a balloon contest. It is best that we should both forget the old life. "GRETCHEN."

Hans turned the paper over—no, that was all. No postscript, no words of loving remembrance, nothing but these three cold lines of dismissal.

He stopped beside the entrance to the theatre and leaned heavily against the wall. It seemed to him that the world had come to an end.

A magnificent touring car stood at the curb, its motor purring, the chauffeur in his seat. Hans' eyes dwelt upon the great throbbing machine, upon the costly upholstering of its interior, and he began to recover his senses.

A burst of laughing chatter brought him out of his reverie. He glanced over his shoulder and saw Gretchen, in a fashionable motor coat, approaching him with two smartly dressed gentlemen.

He started as though to confront his old-time sweetheart, then shrank closer to the fall. For Gretchen and her escort were going directly to the touring car. They were getting in. They seated themselves, laughing and chatting, and the machine whirled them away.

STILL LOYAL

Hans pulled his cap down over his eyes and started for home. He expected never to see Gretchen again—but in mind and heart he was still loyal to her.

Gretchen and her fashionable new friends reached the edge of the aviation field just as the last of the contesting balloons was rising.

"It's Fritz Voorden with my balloon," said Mynheer Noot.

The balloon was drifting with the wind over the fields. Mynheer Noot spoke to his chauffeur. The great car left the road and went bumping and swaying over the meadows, keeping nearly under the gas-filled bag dilating in the sunlight. Other parties showed their interest in the same way. When at length Fritz came sailing gracefully down there was quite a crowd to greet him.

Mynheer Noot lifted Gretchen out of his machine, and they were among the first to congratulate the aeronaut. He was a handsome fellow, with a laughing face, full of daring and animation.

Being introduced to Gretchen, Fritz's eyes hardly left her face. He held her hand so long after he had kissed it that the young lady blushed. She became silent immediately, seeing that Gretchen seemed willing that the handsome aeronaut should hold her hand for the rest of their natural lives.

"May I come and see you?" whispered Fritz.

"Yes," said Gretchen, in a low voice. "Any time you wish."

Gretchen had hardly entered the director's office on the following morning for a consultation about her coming performance when Fritz Voorden was announced. Director Zimmer excused himself, and Fritz was admitted.

Each read in the other's eyes how exactly this meeting has been anticipated. Fritz did not release Gretchen's hand after kissing it, but led her to a chair and fell on his knees before her.

GRETCHEN YIELDS

"I love you, I love you," he said over and over again. "I loved you before ever I saw you. We are equal to each occasions. Marry me, and our lives will be complete."

Gretchen, who had actually been stricken with love for Fritz at first sight, could offer but slight resistance. Soon she yielded.

"We will celebrate our betrothal in the skies," said Fritz.

Gretchen assented. For a moment there was a mist between her eyes and the figure of her handsome lover, and she had a swift vision of Hans with his sheep. She was there, too. They had kissed each other and were sharing promises never to part.

Two hours later she stood proudly in the basket car beside her betrothed, and Mynheer Noot's balloon was bearing them into the clouds. Fritz held her in his arms until the fields resembled a checker board beneath them.

"It is glorious," she said.

Their lips met in a lingering kiss. "It will always be glorious," said Fritz.

Just then Gretchen shivered a little. They were passing through a cloud. When the sun burst upon them again they saw what the first cloud had hid for them—another cloud, a great black one, emitting dazzling forks of lightning.

"Oh!" screamed Gretchen. "We are caught in a thunder storm!"

"We will descend at once," said Fritz, pulling the cord that released the gas from the great bag above them.

"We are lost!" cried Gretchen.

She saw that Fritz was panic-stricken, and felt that she almost hated him.

Suddenly there was a terrible crash, and the great sphere above them burst into flames. They had passed below the clouds now. Gretchen could see the fields leaping up to meet them. She fainted.

A dozen hands were waiting to release the two blackened figures from the smoking mass of wreckage beside the road.

Fritz was little injured. Gretchen's face was hardly recognisable. On the way to the hospital the Red Cross nurse heard her murmur:

"Hans! where are you, Hans!"

(Final Chapter Tomorrow).

To Put On Flesh And Increase Weight

Most thin people eat from four to six pounds of wood solid fat-making food every day and still do not increase in weight one ounce, while, on the other hand, many of the plump, chunky folks eat very lightly and keep gaining all the time. It's all bosh to say that this is the nature of the individual. It isn't Nature's way at all.

This folks stay thin because their powers of assimilation are defective. They just absorb enough of the food they eat to run the machine, and not enough of the nourishing elements to create a semblance of health and strength, and the wood help them. A dozen meals a day will not help any one who "eats them" pound. All the fat-producing elements of their food just stay in the intestines until they pass bodily out of the system. What most people need is something that will help digest these fatty foods, so that their blood can absorb the nourishment and build up the body—something, too, that will multiply bodily blood corpuscles and increase their blood building power.

Such a medicine I always recommend eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a pleasant, harmless, scientific, fat-producing tablet, a scientific combination of six vegetable extracts, each one of which assists in the digestion of some particular food element. It is absolutely harmless, yet wonderfully effective, and the way it puts on solid flesh, and the way it makes the cheeks round out with the beauty of health, is simply wonderful. Sargol is sold by druggists everywhere at $1 per large case, and druggists where Sargol is not on sale will get a case for you on request. Every case is sold under a guarantee to put on flesh and increase weight, or money back.

A THRILLING STORY OF TODAY—HOW A PRETTY GIRL WON HER FIGHT FOR LOVE AGAINST TREMENDOUS ODDS

Based on Joseph Lait's account of the same name now running in New York. Copyright, 1913, by H. W. Hanson and Joseph Lait. Sole agent for United States stories owned by International News Service.

By WEBSTER DENISON

"Mother! Don't make me believe that you wanted me to——"

"Wanted you to what? I don't know nothing about it. All I know is I'm a girl has some sense she always takes care of herself without giving up jobs so her poor mother has to keep her. I bet if the one had kissed you you wouldn't have screamed, eh? Guess have screamed for more, maybe!"

"He did kiss me," the girl answered softly, "and I didn't scream."

"Why?"

THE NEWS

"Because he is a good, clean man, and wants to marry me."

The widow, pouring coffee from a tin pot, put down the cup and stared, complacent. She forgot to right the pot and the scalding liquid splashed to the table.

"Jot!" she exclaimed, when some of it struck her hand and brought her to her senses. "He want to wha?"

"He wanted me to marry him," Gertrude repeated sadly.

"That millionaire's son—wanted you—to marry him? WANTED," she repeated. "And doesn't he want to now?"

"I suppose he does."

"Suppose he does. You sit there like somebody's dead and a millionaire wants you to marry you!"

"He isn't a millionaire, mother. He isn't even a millionaire's son. Jack's only a stepson."

"By a millionaire, even a stepson is rich."

"But Jack isn't. Mr. Scott swore he'd cut him off without a cent if he had anything more to do with me."

"Foolishness; Nonsense! Don't you believe it. They all say that. He'll forgive; every day it gives a story in the paper like this."

"But you don't know this man."

"I don't care nothing. You know his stepson. Don't enough. When is he coming here?"

"He isn't coming. He doesn't know where we live."

"Go 'phone him then." She reached into her dress for her pocketbook. "Here," she said; "here's a nickel."

"No," Gertrude persisted. "I don't want him to find me."

"Are you crazy? Is he so terrible as all that?"

"Terrible! He's the grandest man in all the whole world."

"And you don't want to 'phone him or write him?" She reached out and took the girl by the arm. "Ach du lieber Gott in Himmel! A rich young fellow, he wants to marry you and you even love him, and you run away from him!"

"Yes, that's it, mother. I love him so much that I won't ruin him."

THE MOTHER'S DEFI

"More foolishness! Always the other people you think of, with them fancy story book craziness in your head. You know what you are doing? You could be his wife—I would be his mother-in-law; a chance like that to throw away because you figure out nonsense from your head that you would ruin him, eh? But I ain't crazy upside down. If you won't 'phone that young fellow or go after him, why, I'll go. That's what!"

"You?"

"Yes, me!"

"Mother!" the girl exclaimed. "I won't let you go! You wouldn't dare!"

"I wouldn't dare, eh?" She spread apart her hands in gesture. "On the one side I think this shack and the laundry, over there's a millionaire—I should—be his—mother-in-law—and I won't dare!" She stepped quickly to the wall for her hat and shawl that hung from a nail. Gertrude stood watching her like one dazed, until her mother's excited tones again aroused her.

"Gertie, where's that $10?"

"For what?"

"For a lawyer, that's what! You'll see whether that boy will marry you. I'll make him."

The girl backed away with hands behind her clutching the purse.

"You shan't have it for such a thing!"

"Gertie, gott me das geld!" and she accompanied the demand with physical reinforcement of it. She seized the girl's arms, wrenched the purse from her hand and took out the bill.

"Mamma! Don't! Please don't! I couldn't stand it. Please, mamma—you can't understand."

"No, never can I understand! You work in that laundry eight years, ten hours a day, and you'll understand, Gertie—enough not to let go a millionaire when God sends him to you. Now, get out of my way," she ordered, as the girl stepped between her and the door, "I don't listen to no more foolishness. I get a lawyer."

"Mamma!" cried Gertrude struggling, "if you do that I'll kill myself. I can't stand it! Please don't do it!"

"Then, you go! You go, then! I wait for you till you get back. Bring me an answer—when he marries you—everything.

"You hear me? It's no use you should fool me, because if I don't go today I can go tomorrow. Do you go, or do I go?"

Her words struck like cold steel, but Gertrude saw the futileness of appeal. She must think out some escape; some way to spare herself and save Jack, but so to hit him she must rather than have her mother go. With a look of utter helplessness she moved slowly to the door and passed out.

The Last Crossing.

AT the moment that Gertrude started to telephone him, Jack was closeted with a superintendent of one of the big detective agencies supplying such eager clews to her whereabouts as he could. After the preceptions parting from his stepfather he had first rushed to the elevated station, where he thought he could head her off, but Gertrude had unwittingly eluded him by taking a street car. So, having already experienced defeat in a personal search for her home, he had decided to place the matter in expert hands.

"You handle our business, I believe, Mr. Jenkins," he said, after he had made himself known to the official. "Well, this is a personal matter for me. Nothing mysterious. I want you to find a needle in a haystack—a girl named Gertrude Meyer."

The detective, with that wonted perspicacity of his kith and kin, inquired where the girl lived.

"Why, if I knew that, sir, I'd find her myself. She hasn't run away. At least, I don't think she has. It's simply that I want her at once. Tonight, if I can."

Speaking with a nervous restlessness, Jack hurried through a narration of such details as he thought necessary. He omitted, of course, the quarrel with his father and also the quite essential item of a description of the girl. This the sleuth humbly requested.

A GLOWING DESCRIPTION

"Well, Mr. Jenkins," he revealed, "she's seventeen and probably about the prettiest girl in New York." Relaining his sitting posture he drew his hand across his chin: "I should say she comes up to about here on me."

The detective's pompous dignity relaxed.

"And you, Mr. Scott," he laughed; "how tall are you?"

"Five feet nine."

"Then the young lady, I should say, is about five and four. Now what does she look like?"

"She's very beautiful, I tell you," the boy retorted.

Do You Know That—

Chickens which lose their timidity and become bold and pugnacious under the influence of electrical stimulus were described by Mr. Thorne Baker in a paper read before the Royal Society of Arts, London. He said chickens could be grown under electric stimulus at about double the cost, thus doubling the output of a chicken farm, and halving the food bill per chicken. The vitality of the treated chickens was remarkable. During the treatment they were so highly charged with electricity that quite a distinct shock was felt in the fingers on touching them, although the birds were supremely unconscious of anything. The sparks which issued from their beaks on their pecking one's finger did not appear to be felt in the least by them.

Mrs. Philip Snowden has created a new record. In eight years she has addressed more than 1,500 political meetings—mainly on woman's suffrage—with a total attendance of well over a million and a half. There is probably no other speaker, man or woman, in England who can approach these figures.

LATEST STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were unsteady and without definite trend today, opening higher, receding, recovering and declining again. The tone was feverish. The selling of Lehigh Valley caused worry. By afternoon irregularity prevailed in New York and gains were included Texas oil 2¾, Alaska Gold ¾, Central Leather ¾, New York Central ¾, Canadian Pacific ¾, Southern Pacific ¾, New Haven ¾, American Telephone ¾, American Smelting ¾, Northern Pacific ¾, Baltimore and Ohio ¾ and Union Pacific ¼. Among recessions were Missouri Pacific 4⅜. It then selling at 19¾ after being as low as 19. Lehigh Valley was down a point to 139¾. Steel was down ⅜ during the day and off ¼ at 65⅝. Amalgamated was off ¼ and Reading ⅛.

In Boston, New Haven was up 1 and Boston & Maine ¾, while United Fruit had advanced ¾. American Telephone had advanced ¾. Granby was the only loss of a point. Mines which showed fractional gains included Alaska Gold, Butte and Superior, Calumet and Arizona and North Butte, on a two share sale. Boston & Albany declined 3.

PRICES FIRM AT OPENING.

Prices were firmer when stock markets opened, and there was more breadth to local trading, while business was on a considerable scale in New York. The change in the Mexican situation was considered as a big factor by many. Others thought that the situation was still one which might lead to serious trouble. At the start there was low pressure upon Lehigh Valley, Union Pacific and New York Central than they were subjected to yesterday, but prices opened higher, while Lehigh Valley soon recovered from an initial loss and receded again. There was much early business in New York Central. One statement concerning Union Pacific and Lehigh Valley is that receipts will be considerably less for certain banking interests who prefers to disguise the source of the offerings."

Steel was steady at the opening, and it is claimed that strong interests have been buying it around 58 in the face of expectations that its earnings report for the first quarter will be one of the poorest it has ever made. While the market waits for an Eastern freight rate decision, more talk is heard of the possibility, or probability, that some of the greatest railroads will reduce their dividend rates.

AMERICANS HIGHER ABROAD.

The better tone on this side was partly because American stocks were higher in London. Steel and "Katy" making good gains there and Canadian Pacific being notably strong. The New York price trend soon became uncertain and at times rejectionary. A number of issues soon lose lost their gains and hesitancy appeared to govern the speculative attention. Much attention was given railroads. Missouri Pacific sagged badly. By midday it was off more than five points.

Washington statistics state that during February last the net operating revenue of railroads in this country decreased comparatively an aggregate of $19,239,049, while the shrinkage in operating expenses was but $4,013,223.

TRADING BECAME DULL.

Activity which was a feature of the first hour did not continue long, for during the second hour the market was quiet and irregular. The price range was rather narrow. Bethlehem Steel was strong among specialties. Central Leather advanced a point. It is expected to report for the first quarter of 1914 a net profit of $1,000,000, which resulted from operations during the corresponding 1913 period. It is said that after payment of dividends its surplus will be at the annual rate of about 8 per cent. on common. New Haven was in demand around 69, and it is understood that the road's management has arranged for refunding the $45,000,000 in notes which mature on May 15.

LEHIGH VALLEY TALK.

Talk of dividend reductions largely centred around Lehigh Valley and explained its recession to 139, a new low record. One statement is that a selling order placed with one commission house called for the disposal of about 40,000 shares. By midday the market had rallied and there were few pronounced losses which did not show again. Westinghouse was among the strongest.

The local list was irregular, however, with Island Creek Coal and New Haven making the best showing. Granby continues weak. According to a local financial publication, its recent decline was due to a concentrated bear drive which caught stop-loss orders and invited liquidation. "Well-informed interests," it is said," state there was no basis for the attack, so far as property conditions are concerned."

FINANCIAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

New York Central stock sold yesterday at the lowest price it has touched in about thirty years.

According to the usual fortnightly report foreign visible supply of copper increased 1,974 tons during the first half of April. European buying in this country has diminished this month.

Bay State Consolidated reports for 1913 net profits of $2,675,192 or $1.8 a share compared with $1,350 in 1912. last year's production was 52,341,025 pounds of copper, while in 1912 it was 24,674,223.

China's net earnings last year amounted to $5,254,34, or $3.75 per share, compared with $2.80 per share in the previous year. It produced 80,11,661 pounds of copper. Production in 1912 was 27,776,088.

Auto News

By J. C. KERRISON.

The motor speedway at Seattle, which is now being built, will have its first race meeting on July 18 and 19, following close upon the events at Sioux City and Tacoma. Prizes amounting to $20,000 will be given. It is said, among them a $10,000 loving cup to go to the winner of the feature event, a 250-mile race for cars of 600 cubic inches and over.

The speedway is to be one and a quarter miles around, built with a concrete base and an asphaltum surface. Grandstands to seat 40,000 persons and parking space for 5,000 automobiles are other features, according to Frank Lowry, who is general manager.

* * *

The Mercedes car which Frank De Palma will drive at Indianapolis has a motor of the aviation type with six steel cylinders of the sort that has won nearly all the flying contests in Germany the past year. It develops 100 horsepower.

* * *

A gasoline economy test will be held by the H H Franklin Company in thirty-five of the leading cities of this country on May first next. On that day a car will be taken from stock and after the gasoline tank has been drained each car will receive one gallon of the Franklin fluid. Then, with a carrying load of three persons, the cars will be driven over the roads until the motor dies of starvation. This is done to determine how many miles have been covered on one gallon of gas. Returns from each of the cities in which the test is conducted will be forwarded to the home office in Syracuse and the average gallon will be set as the standard for Franklin economy.

The idea is that an average arrived at from the experiences of thirty-five individual cars is better, from a talking standpoint, than is a record created by any one individual machine. Otto Lohrer, of the local agency, feels confident that the results will prove most satisfactory to the H H Franklin Company.

Most Skin Trouble Readily Overcome

The Active Principle of a Famous Remedy Works Wonders.

Many people have marveled the way S. S. S. overcomes skin troubles. The secret is in the fact that S. S. S. works in the blood and the blood is really a most intricate and extraordinary maze of arteries and veins.

Then you will come to realize that the skin and the flesh beneath are composed of a network of tiny blood vessels you notice the mystery.

There are wonderful medicinal properties in S. S. S. that follow the course of the blood stream just as naturally as the most nourishing food elements.

S. S. S. is really a remarkable remedy. It contains one ingredient, the active purpose of which is to stimulate the tissues to the healthy selection of its own essential nutriment. And the medicinal elements of this matchless blood purifier are just as essential to well-balanced health as the nutritious elements of the meats, grains, fats and sugars of our daily food. There is no use of minerals or drugs is used in its preparation. Ask for S. S. S. and get. Insist upon having it. And if you desire skillful advice and counsel upon any matter concerning the blood and skin, write to the medical department, The Swift Specific Co., 529 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Do not allow some zealous clerk's eloquence persuade something just as good. S. S. S. to fool you. Ask the same old general drugs. Beware of all substitutes. Insist upon S. S. S.

EDITORIAL PAGE OF THE BOSTON AMERICAN BOSTON APRIL 17, 1914

"Nothing so funny since the 'Mikado' as our Mexican farce," says John Bull.

"Mournful and humiliating," says the American.

"Stop arresting my sailors and salute my flag," says Uncle Sam.

"I won't," says Huerta.

"Then, by gum, I'll salute your flag," says Uncle Sam, and he does.

Says John Bull to his friend:

"If you're gloomy read the Mexican 'war news'; it will cheer you up. For pure, delightful humor, nothing since 'the Mikado,' not even the adventures of Admiral Piffle on board the good ship Grapejuice, has contained so many elements of pure humor.

Americans, like other mortals, dislike being laughed at. But we must be good natured and accept the laughter this time. We really deserve it. For our nation is put in as comical a comic opera light as any Englishman could wish.

First we have our long period of watchful waiting.

The Mexicans are murdering each other, or uniting like brothers to murder our citizens, young women and children.

The United States does nothing.

The Mexicans murder their President, Madero. They murder helpless workers in the field, they destroy American property and they butcher a few more hundreds of American citizens.

We watchfully wait AND DO NOTHING.

After a little while, we have a brilliant idea. We permit guns, bullets, powder, knives to be shipped to the bandit Villa.

Gaily and enthusiastically this bandit and his friends extend their murdering operations.

But we, the United States, DO NOTHING. WE STILL WATCHFULLY WAIT.

Then comes the great historical, patriotic moving event of Tampico.

Some of our sailors with one of the stewards go ashore to get supplies, chili con carni, Mexican beans, etc., presumably.

Huerta, who has not been recognized by the United States, arrests the sailors and locks them up.

Our Admiral demands their release and they are released.

Then the Admiral says to Huerta:

"You must salute our flag."

Which means that the Mexicans must solemnly bring out their cannon, and at considerable risk to everybody fire it off twenty-one times in honor of the flag of the United States.

But Huerta says:

"I won't salute your flag."

And he probably adds to himself, although he doesn't say it:

"I don't like your flag and never did. I don't like it any more than I like you.

"You wouldn't recognize me as a dictator, president or anything else. You called me a murderer. Why do you ask me to salute your flag? I won't do it."

Then the comic opera war history begins in earnest.

All the cartoonists bring out their old dogs of war and ask the managing editor, "How many stars are there in the United States flag? I've got to begin making flags."

The telegraph wires from Washington are loaded with heroism. Hundreds of young men try to join the army and navy.

Solemn editors say:

"Better late than never. The watchful waiting was tiresome. But this is real business."

For you must know that our whole magnificent fleet is rushed to Tampico.

We are going to make that Huerta salute our flag or know the reason why. Great excitement among patriots. Great dreams of glory among the young.

How proud their hearts beat. The citizens wring each other's hands, fall upon each other's necks and say:

"We are invincible and terrible. Our fleet is cleaving the limpid ocean on its way to Tampico. Our flag is going to have its injured feelings all fixed up. By the time the fleet gets in sight Huerta will be on his knees saluting that flag over and over, saying:

"How d'ye do, flag? I salute you."

Women are almost tearing last year's mosquito netting into lint for the wounded. It is a wild, patriotic time.

And then comes the announcement straight from Washington that an arrangement has been made by Admiral Piffle, sometimes known as the Secretary of State of the United States.

It is true that Huerta would not salute our flag. He is supposed to have said to O'Shaughnessy, our representative:

"You know that Barnum's white elephant wouldn't drink English coffee. The reason was that he didn't like it.

"That's why I won't salute the flag."

But diplomacy and grape juice combined work wonders. And while the young men are feverishly enlivening, we are told that the whole thing is over.

Huerta wouldn't salute our flag. SO WE ARE GOING TO SALUTE HIS.

He says: "Nothing one sided suits me. Let your fleet salute the Mexican flag and that large cannon you see over there will salute the American flag as well. Turn about is fair play."

"Quite true," says Grape Juice diplomacy. "Nothing could be fairer in the world. We'll salute his flag, of course, or for that matter, any other old flag that anybody can provide."

And so this is the delicious solution: We refuse to recognize Huerta, the murderer. We good naturedly accept his arrest of our sailors and his contemptuous refusal to make the usual reparation customary among civilized peoples.

And we solve the problem, having sent our whole fleet down to Tampico, by firing off our own good gunpowder in a salute honoring the flag of Mexico, stained with the shame of a hundred thousand murders and stained with the blood of defenceless American citizens who had no government to protect them in their property right or their lives.

Comic opera, with a dash of tragedy, it is true, but comic opera of the highest order is this Mexican incident, and this reparation to the United States national honor at Tampico, Mexico.

Those who know the Mexicans say that in their hearts they despise the government of the United States, but are thoroughly afraid of Texas.

Those who observe the recent attitude of the government of the United States, as contrasted with the attitude and the activity of a Texan who gets hold of a murderous Mexican, can readily understand the Mexican situation.

A humiliating mournful chapter in our history, but a lesson for the people.

A nation to be respected by others must respect itself.

A Patriotic Letter from a Woman Over 80 Years Old

Mr. William R. Hearst:

Dear Sir—I want to say a few words in regard to the Panama Canal. For a few weeks I have read much in your Boston AMERICAN, as to who was to control our new canal, and it would not take me long to answer. I have always thought this the best country the sun shines on, the land of the free, and the home of the brave.

But now I ask myself, where are our true Americans.

Have we got to ask permission of Johnnie Bull to use our land, our money, our labor, to build what we please, and do as we please in our own country? Never.

NEVER. NEVER surrender our rights to any foreign nation.

I have always felt that it was right to respect and uphold our President and his assistants, but who can, after reading and thinking the last few weeks? I want to thank Champ Clark for his manly speech in defence of our country, also your timely remarks to save America from British interference.

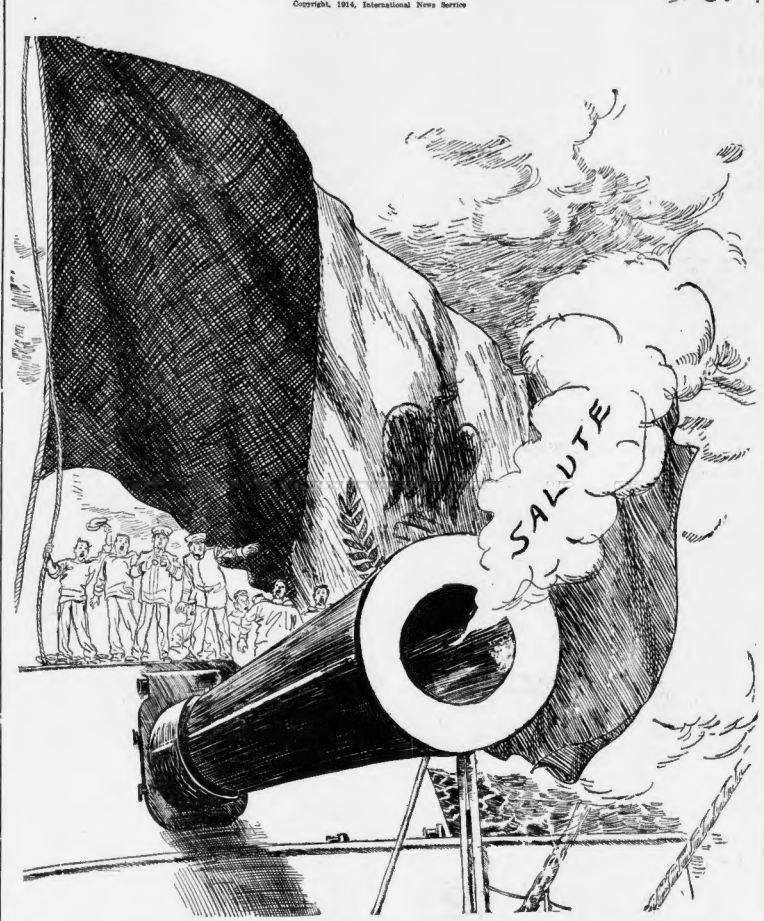
I do hope there may be some true Americans who will rouse up and get awake.

I am no suffragette, no politician, but a woman of some common sense, over eighty years of age, and still patriotic enough to work for our country, and hold high the flag that stands for liberty and freedom, the flag that has never known defeat.

Most respectfully,
MRS. E. BARROWS.
Fayville, Mass.

Respect for the MEXICAN Flag!

Copyright, 1914, International News Service



The magnificent American fleet apparently has been assembled for the ridiculous purpose of saluting the Mexican flag, which of late has represented nothing but the murder of American men, the outrage of American women and the plunder of American property. The salute of the Mexican flag can not be construed as anything but the endorsement of such a Mexican policy.

Risking Lives for Eggs

By GARRETT P. SERVISS

ONLY three emperor's eggs! Just three eggs of the emperor penguin—the unshivering monarch of the world of ice—stolen from their nest in the midst of the spectral polar night, within a few degrees of the frozen Antarctic hub of the earth, when the thermometer sank more than a hundred points below freezing. That was the prize.

A tramp of 200 miles through the endless dark that no sunrise interrupts for months, a tramp with struggling dogs and creaking sledges, over hummocks of ice as hard as granite, over hidden crevasses that might swallow an army, over ice-floes pressed together and swelled into ridges above the roofed sea beneath; a tramp amid blizzards that swept away tents and huts, at times without food, at times without knowledge of their way through the blinding, maddening storm, and the awful, paralyzing cold. That is the way the prize was won.

The winners were a "scientific party" detached from Captain Scott's unfortunate but immortal South Polar expedition. I am of General Greely's opinion that the "physical experiences" of the party that went on to the pole and found itself beaten at that goal by Amundsen entailed relatively less bodily discomfort and acute suffering than did this midwinter journey "for strictly scientific purposes, to the penguin rookery at Cape Crozier."

They had to do it in midwinter, which means midnight in the Polar regions, because the emperor penguin, a bird that gets its name from its picturesque dress and its majestic and pensive air, in both of which it seems to mimic the first Napoleon, chooses, for reasons known only to itself and to nature, to do its nesting in the height of the coldest season of the year, in places where temperatures of a hundred degrees below freezing, or 68 degrees below Fahrenheit zero, are almost every-day experiences.

But why should men's lives be risked and terrible sufferings endured for the sake of getting three unhatched eggs from the breeding nest of an unsociable big bird that does not show itself outside the Antarctic continent, that is not good for eating, and that can never be raised in a barnyard, or kept in a menagerie to be stared at?

Because the emperor penguin—and nobody knows exactly why; it is another of those unsolved mysteries which make the Antarctic so fascinating—is a remarkably close relative of the earliest form of bird. But birds, paleontologists tell us, arose by evolution out of reptiles, and one of the most significant facts known about evolution is that in the development of the embryos, or egg forms, of animals a brief history, a kind of condensed representation, of the long processes of change which their ancestors have undergone is to be found.

So the three eggs of the emperor penguin, procured at the expense of so much risk and suffering by Captain Scott's expedition, are of immense scientific interest, and the result of their careful study might, conceivably, be to open up a wonderful vista through the mists of geological time.

Science, Sin and Ignorance

By EDGAR LUCIEN LARKIN

Q.—HOW lift the people out of sin and ignorance?

A.—Humans cannot be lifted out of sin; it is their nature to do wrong and be sinful. Even if it were possible to change the entire nature of human beings by centuries of culture the work cannot be commenced so long as war, alcohol and gluttony reign supreme.

There is not money enough in the entire world to make impression against the astonishing mountains of ignorance. In this great United States of America not one in 10,000 perhaps has ever heard that the universe is run by laws, and does not know that there are laws of nature. Entire millions are born, live and pass a lifetime in this otherwise beautiful world and die without really having seen anything. Their eyes see objects, motions and natural operations, but their minds are completely blank, so far as knowing of what they are viewing.

"Education"—it is painful to mar pure white paper with this word. The present appalling system of forcing children to study branches against which nature has decreed, thus permanently injuring their minds, natures and personalities, ought to be punished by some newly enacted law. They put a number of totally unlike children in the same class and expect unlike beings to learn like subjects, and all in the same time to be able to withstand the present brain curdling methods of "examination."

If all nations on earth should suddenly stop war and the manufacture of alcohol, and use every dollar in the attempt to educate each child separately, some faint impression could be made against the enormous ranges of mountains of ignorance. Each child hereafter born to mathematics could have instruction in mathematics by teachers showing something of the mentality of the student.

A fine watch would not be taken to a blacksmith; a costly dynamo would not be for an instant placed in charge of one not knowing the laws ruling the machine. Yet far more delicate mechanisms, the minds of children, are placed under domination of teachers not knowing child nature.

In-Shoots

Do not criticize the old town unless you can offer a remedy.

It is sometimes better to look the bull over before taking him by the horns.

When a man feels that he is doing his duty he does not often worry about losing his job.

Prosperity cannot be much of a comfort when a fellow is always too busy to enjoy it.

Because a woman's hat supports a bird of paradise it is no sign that she is an angel.

The real fountain of youth never has a grape juice flavor.

Every woman should be willing to either cook for her husband or pay his board.

It is often more difficult for a married man than it is for a politician to redeem his promises.

Money in the hands of a fool never talks—it jabbers.

If one cannot wed for love, it is just as well to marry a good meal ticket.

"The Business of Life"—Earth Is a Preparatory School Where the Soul of Man Is Sent to Study and Learn Its Divinity

By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

Copyright, 1914, by the Star Company

LIFE means action, from the cradle to the funeral pile.

The situation into which we are born and our mental and physical equipments at birth are the result of past actions in other lives, and all our actions while here are forming conditions for lives to come.

There are limitless possibilities in this life to overcome, whatever conditions hamper or annoy us, and to bring into realization whatever hopes or aspirations lure us.

We have not begun to sound the depths in our minds.

The most brilliant, the most studious, the most reverent, the most persistent, have only sailed about the shores of this great ocean; they have not even imagined what deep waters lie beyond, and what rare pearls lie under those deep waters.

But we have shining examples of individuals who have achieved so much under such discouraging conditions that their lives become an inspiration to all who meditate upon them.

Lincoln, born in poverty, reared in the same hard school, surrounded by the commonplace and the undesirable and deprived of all opportunities for advancement, made himself a colossal figure in the eyes of centuries to come through high thinking, clean living and the persistent cultivation of the old immortal virtues of honesty, truth, courage and unselfishness and devotion to those duties which stood nearest.

All his thoughts, all his ambitions, all his actions, from childhood to maturity, were directed toward the attainment of those virtues and their practical application to every issue which life presented. Unconsciously to himself, he was treading the path to immortal fame; he was building a character which would invite tremendous responsibilities, and creating the strength to meet them grandly.

He knew what life meant.

It meant action, an achievement through growth.

There is no such thing as inaction during this life.

We are continually going forward or backward.

You are either stronger or weaker this year than you were last year.

You are braver or more cowardly.

You are more hopeful or more pessimistic.

You are more capable mentally or less so.

You have better or poorer command of your forces.

You have more efficiency or not as much.

You are nearer your goal or farther from it.

You are a better human being or not so good.

Next year at this time you will be still farther onward or still farther backward.

Every thought, every word and every act of each day is chiseling out the statue you are making of yourself.

If you desire to be an expression of the Creator's finest handiwork you must work with care.

Delicate tools are these thoughts of ours, and they must be used with caution.

Every morning say to yourself (the Self self): "Today I will think of whatever is beautiful, strong, noble, wholesome and worthy.

"I will entertain hope, courage, reverence, gratitude and love as the guests of my heart. I will make thoughts of health at ease in the guest chamber of my mind so disease may not enter.

"And I will achieve something worth while in my chosen field of endeavor. I will work faithfully, but I will find time to sit alone with thoughts of my Creator for a little while, and no worldly ambition or anxiety shall intrude upon that time."

Just as surely as you begin and carry out your days along these lines, just as surely shall the true meaning of life come to you and you shall know that the meaning of life IS God and that in Him are all the things for which you long: Health, Happiness, Prosperity, Usefulness, Beauty and Joy.

And you shall know the earth is not a vale of tears, but a great and beautiful preparatory school where the soul of man is send to study and learn its divinity and to develop its wonderful powers.

Then will dawn not dream what forces lie in thee.
Vast and unfathomed as the deepest sea.
Thy silent mind o'er diamond caves may roll.
Go seek them, and let pilot will control.
Those passions which thy favoring winds may be.
No man can place a limit to they strength.
Such triumphs as no mortal ever gained.
May yet be thine if thou wilt but believe.
In thy Creator and thyself. In length
Some feet must tread all heights now unattained;
Why not thine own? Go forth, achieve, achieve!
